100. “All That Glitters” Original Artwork by Shari Lord

“I have long been fascinated by fish, whether large, small, salt-water or fresh. They are beautiful, changing colors and shapes as they move through our waters. The fish in this piece are Salmon, rendered in chalk and oil pastels, acrylic paints and gold leaf. They are layered in acrylic resin which gives them depth, jewel-like tones and a sense of movement.” - Shari Lord

102. Van Duzer

Van Duzer Vineyards was built on a dream to find a cool weather site in Oregon for the fussy Pinot Noir grape that would rival the best wines of Burgundy in balance and finesse. In 1989, Van Duzer Vineyards owners Carl and Marilyn Thoma located a hilltop winery with existing vineyards immediately west of the Eola Hills. The estate site occupies a strategic site in the foothills of the Van Duzer Corridor, the conduit through the Coastal Mountains for maritime breezes that enter the Willamette Valley at the close of summer evenings.

114. Battle of the Burgundies: Round One

This is a great opportunity to taste the crème de la crème of French Burgundies and Oregon Pinot Noirs. The Shea Pinot has a great ripeness that is the hallmark of good new world Pinot Noir and is a truly balanced and harmonious wine that should age well. The Domaine Fourrier is a beautiful wine, but should really benefit from a 5 to 7 year sleep in the cellar. Have a blind taste test – which is best, local or European? I think we know who wins this match up.

115. Battle of the Burgundies: Round Two

Who says “opportunity only knocks once”? Here is your second chance to do your own comparison of French Burgundies and Oregon Pinot Noirs. The Ken Wright Pinot is a great wine from a great vintage, which should reward a slumber in the cellar and be stunning over the next 10 to 15 years. Mugnier’s wine is polished and high toned, and while there is certainly Nuits character in this wine, the elegance and sophistication that is Mugnier’s hallmark comes through in spades. Don’t let this one get away.

Cellar Crawl

Cellar Crawl was formed when five winemakers and friends chose to join forces to learn from each other's successes and failures, share winemaking secrets, and tackle the challenges together. It started with a casual trip to each other's cellars. A journey to Burgundy sealed the friendships.

Recognizing that their winemaking styles were quite different even after a decade of traveling and tasting together, they started to wonder, "What would happen if we shared our grapes? If we made wine from the same five lots of Pinot Noir?" In 2006 they made it happen. The Cellar Crawl was born.

The winemakers

Terry and Ted Casteel, Bethel Heights Vineyard

Steve Doerner, Cristom Vineyards

Ken Wright, Ken Wright Cellars

Lynn Penner-Ash, Penner-Ash Wine Cellars

Laurent Montalieu, Solena Cellars

20% of the profit from this sale will be donated to the

Commemorative Painting By John Van Dreal

For the third annual Uncorked Wine Auction, local artist John Van Dreal has created this “Still Life with Chair, Calla Lilies, and Cloth.”

“I have considerable admiration for the Masters and employ their established composition formulas to determine the dimension and design of my work. I then build surface and texture through layered oil painting combined with glazing to render form and capture light. As a result of this process and style, my completed work is reminiscent of Classical Realism with a contemporary edge.

Although I often focus on light and form as content, my intrigue with symbolism and iconography tends to find dominance in many of my pieces. By combining symbol and form with established aesthetic principles and time-proven techniques I hope to create evocative, contemporary images that find expression on aesthetic, intellectual and spiritual levels.”

Bluehour means different things to different people. In French literature, it describes any time of day of “heightened emotion.” In Portland, it has come to mean “great place to dine.” As the premier modern restaurant in the Pearl District, Bluehour opened its doors in 2000 with what Gourmet Magazine describes as “the most sophisticated, contemporary food in town.”

This package features a private dinner for 30 in the Bluehour private dining room, “L’Heure Bleu.” The private “cellar” boasts exposed wood beams and features a wall of over 3,000 back-lit wine bottles, providing a warm and elegant feel for your special event. Your custom, five-course menu – personally created by Chef Kenny Giambalvo – includes hors d’oeuvre, salad, pasta/risotto, entrée and dessert.

To complement the classic cuisine of Chef Giambalvo, each course will be paired with wines from stellar Oregon producer Domaine Serene. Domaine Serene has been lauded by critics and consumers worldwide, with wines regularly rated at the top of their class. In designating Domaine Serene the Wine and Spirits 2007 Estate Winery of the Year, the magazine writes: “Domaine Serene always seems to end up on top in these pages; they are consistent no matter what the weather.”

This package is perfect for entertaining corporate clients, a ready made rehearsal dinner or simply as the ultimate evening out for 15 select couples.

Big Washington Reds

Our neighbor to the north is quickly becoming a hot new wine region, producing big bold reds. We have assembled a collection of Washington's finest red wines from some of the most highly rated wineries in the state.

These wines are very difficult to come by. The majority of the wines are sold to a select group of customers who must patiently wait to get on the private mailing list.

All are from top rated wineries and sure to please.
